A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jeriko and fell among the thieves who stripped him off his clothes and wounded him, leaving him half-dead. By chance, there came down a certain priest that way.

When he saw him, he passed by on the other side. Likewise, a Levite who was at the place came and looked at him.

He also passed by on the other side. But, a certain Samaritan who was travelling on his horse saw the wounded man and went where he was lying. He washed his wounds, poured in oil and wine. The Good Samaritan put him on his horse and took him to the inn to treat him.

On the following day, the Good Samaritan wanted to go away. He took out some money and gave it to the host and said to him, "look after this injured man and whatever you spend during my absence, I will repay you."
